

CONTRACT IS CLOSED TODAY

Improvement of Rushville Co-operative Telephone Plant at Cost of About $40,000 Concluded.

GLASS & CO. GET $28,537.37

Cable Capacity is More Than Doubled and Telephone Demands Can be Cared for Many Years.

The work of improving the Rushville Co-operative Telephone company's plant, including the exchange and the outside lines, which cost in the neighborhood of forty thousand dollars, was practically brought to a close today when George H. Glass & Company of Pekin, Illinois finished their contract.

The plant is now beyond any doubt the best one in Indiana, size of the city being taken into consideration. With present equipment, the company can accommodate 425 more single line phones, or that many party lines if it be necessary.

Officials of the company say that the plant will serve the needs here for many years to come because all of the demands for new telephones have been satisfied and there are still plenty of lines left.

There are a total of sixteen hundred phones in use and the present equipment will accommodate 2,025 single lines. All of the phones now in use in the city are single lines. Because there is so little difference in price, the demand is for single line phones in preference to party lines. The latter kind are still used, of course, in the country.

A hundred and fifty new telephones have been added since the plant has been enlarged. The capable capacity was more than doubled. Formerly only nine hundred lines were in use, but now there are 2,025 lines which may be used. The former limited capable capacity caused so many party lines here in Rushville.

The contract price of George H. Glass & Company was $28,537.37, which amount was paid in the final settlement today. This does not represent all the money which was spent in the improvement by ten thousand dollars, however. Six thousand dollars had to be expended for an additional switch board and four thousand dollars was paid for extra material and labor over and above what the contractors did.

I. & C. IS MADE DEFENDANT

Two Suits For $15,000 Each as Result of Recent Viaduct Collision.

The Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company was made a defendant in two damage suits, in which the combined sum of $30,000 is asked, filed in the Marion circuit court yesterday. Both suits are for $15,000 and are the outgrowth of the wreck at the foot of Virginia avenue viaduct in Indianapolis recently when an I. & C. freight car crashed into the back end of a city car, killing four. The plaintiffs are James H. Johnson and Onda Byers.

MUNCIE GOES "DRY."

(By United Press.)

Muncie, Ind., Mar. 10.—That $2,500 a year had been subscribed to enforce the liquor and other laws here was announced today by the "drys" following their victory in voting out the saloons by a majority of 462.

WILL CLOSE CITY PLANT

But it Will Come Early in the Morning.

The water and light plant will be shut down between two and three o'clock tomorrow morning. One of the engines has been "knocking" for some time and while the repairs will take several days, it is thought that the plant will have to close but the one time. A new plate will be placed over the head of the cylinder. While most of the patrons of the plant probably would never notice that the plant had closed, Superintendent Mahin thought it best to notify the public of the close down.

MRS. R. F. SCUDDER
SUFFERS STROKE

Is in Critical Condition at Home Here as Result of Apoplexy—

Close Call From Burning.

FALLS ACROSS SMALL STOVE

Mrs. R. F. Scudder is in a critical condition at her home, corner of Jackson and Second streets, as a result of a stroke of apoplexy suffered yesterday afternoon about five o'clock. Mrs. Scudder has not yet regained consciousness and very little hope for her life is held by the attending physicians. Mrs. Scudder is a well known society woman and her serious illness comes as a shock to her many friends.

Mrs. Scudder had a close call from burning to death as she fell across a small stove and undoubtedly would have met a horrible end but for the presence of Mrs. Ella Kuhns of Dayton, Ohio, a sister of Mr. Scudder. Mrs. Scudder was in the bath room when she suffered the stroke and in falling, fell across the stove. She was found there by Mrs. Kuhns but the fire had not yet got to her clothing. Miss Helen Scudder, daughter of the stricken woman was in Crawfordville visiting and was called home.

JOHN PLOUGH IS DEAD AT MARION

Veteran of Civil War Who Lived in This City and County All His Life Expires at Soldiers Home.

REMAINS TO BE BROUGHT HERE

Engaged in Farming Until Rebellion When he Enlisted in Co. I Sixty-Eighth Indiana.

Word was received here this morning of the death of John Plough at the Marion Soldiers' Home. He was a well known resident of this city and had been at the home only a few months. He was 76 years old, and, while the cause of death is not known, it is taken that senility was the direct cause.

John Plough was a native of Rush county and was born in Richland township, April 16, 1837. He was the son of the late Jacob and Mary Plough and spent his early life on the farm. He engaged in farming until August 1862 when he enlisted in Company I, Sixty-eighth Indiana Volunteers and served until October 29, 1862. He returned to this county and again took up farming. Shortly afterwards he moved to this city and engaged in the livery business.

He was married December 21, 1859, to Anna A. Wamsley. Mrs. Plough has been dead several years. For the past several winters, Mr. Plough had lived with his daughter, Mrs. Lulu Downey in Detroit. This winter, however he went to the Marion Home. Mr. Plough spent the summer months here and looked upon Rushville as his home. He was for several years a rural mail carrier and was forced to retire because of illness. He had not been in good health for some time. Mr. Plough has a sister, Mrs. Mary Lowden, living in this city.

Mr. Plough was a member of the G. A. R. and was a worthy citizen enjoying the respect of all. He is survived by one daughter and sister. The remains will be brought to this city where the funeral services will be conducted, but the complete arrangements have not been made.

Twenty-Six Are Believed to Be Buried in Ruins of Missouri Athletic Club Building.

5 OUT OF 10 ARE IDENTIFIED

(By United Press.)

St. Louis, March 10.—With ten bodies recovered from the Missouri Athletic club building's ruins, firemen today began a search for the twenty-six missing, believed to have been thrown from the fifth and sixth stories to the basement.

Firemen early today reported that by the aid of a powerful search light they discovered the charred remains of eleven bodies penned in between two sections of the fallen wall, but when they entered the basement later, the bodies could not be found. Weeping women resumed watch today with hope abandoned. A morbid crowd surged about the morgue where five of the ten bodies were still unidentified.

Norway is enjoying a boom in its clothespin industry.

L. B. SMELSER IS THE SECRETARY

Is Appointed Late Monday by Executive Committee of Chamber of Commerce Board.

BEGINS HIS DUTIES AT ONCE

Because of His Intimate Association With Richmond Secretary, he Has Some Knowledge of Work.

The executive committee of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of Rush county at a meeting late yesterday afternoon elected L. B. Smelser, a teacher in the high school, secretary of the Chamber.

Mr. Smelser began his duties today, and as soon as the offices are opened in the Odd Fellows building, he may be found there most any evening from four to six o'clock and all day Saturday, except those times he is compelled to be out of the office attending to duties connected with the office.

The headquarters are in the offices formerly occupied by Will M. Sparks and are located at the southeast corner of the second floor of the building. The offices are being furnished suitably without expense.

There were several candidates for the secretaryship, but the executive committee was unanimous in its selection of Mr. Smelser for the reason that he has more knowledge of the work that is expected of him and that is connected with the office than any other man who was an applicant for the place.

Mr. Smelser is an intimate friend of Charles Jordan, secretary of the Richmond Commercial club, which is one of the most virile and active commercial organizations in the United States. Already, since he has been a seeker after the position here, Mr. Smelser has conferred with Mr. Jordan to get ideas of the work.

While a resident of Richmond and later a student in Earlham college there, Mr. Smelser observed closely the work of Mr. Jordan and had an ambition to take up the work that he had been so successfully engaged in. He has followed Mr. Jordan's career closely and is acquainted with the duties of the office. Because he has some knowledge, more, in fact, than the members of the board of directors, the committee felt that it was a rare opportunity to get a secretary so equipped.

From time to time Mr. Smelser will get additional data from Mr. Jordan to help him with the work of the local Chamber. Mr. Jordan will go to any length to accommodate the Rushville secretary as a friend, and this should mean much, the committee believes, to the organization. Mr. Smelser will devote only his extra time to the office until school dismisses in May for the summer vacation. By that time the status of the Chamber will determine whether he shall devote all of his time to the work.

The next meeting of the board of directors will likely be held in the new headquarters. Within a short while the executive committee hopes to show the board a nicely fitted up office that will be inviting to any stranger who should chance to come in.

The finance committee will proceed with the collection of the first month's dues and after that, the collection will be the duty of the secretary. As soon as the first dues are all in, the standing committees, in addition to the membership committee, will be named and the regular work of each taken up.

Primary in Henry County Shows That Republicans Gained Forty Per cent Over 1912.

MOOSERS ARE FLOCKING HOME

Point to This as Convincing Argument and Hopes are High to Elect Congressman.

[Special to the Daily Republican.] Newcastle, Ind., Mar. 10.—Henry county has always been known as a rock-ribbed Republican county, that is up until the last election, when the Democrats went into office by the "skin of their teeth." Despite the fact that there were 1,500 bull moose voters in the county, the Democrats had majorities ranging from 20 to 100. One Republican was elected out of six offices.

The eyes of the entire state have been glancing toward Newcastle and Henry county this year to see whether or not the Bull Moosers were flocking homeward. When the mayoralty race was held last fall, an independent Republican was elected with the Republican running second, the Democrats third and the Moose candidate a poor fourth with 141 votes. Still the Moosers claimed that this was not a representative vote because of the independent candidate.

It remained for the Republican primary to give the first authentic forecast and now the Republicans claim they are again the dominating party in the county.

The G. O. P. county primary was held February 17 with candidates to be selected for twelve offices. Six of these had no contests and in addition the weather was not conducive to bring the voters out. But still Henry county, which gave William H. Taft but 2,479 votes in 1912 polled over 3,100 Republican votes in a primary. To say that the leaders were jubilant is to put it mildly. They are already claiming the fall election by 1,000 majority their annual Republican majority in years gone by.

Adjoining Henry county is Wayne county, a Bull Moose stronghold, which cast 4,457 votes for Roosevelt. Continued on Page 4.

Ferris B. Land was born in Decatur county, Indiana, November 28th, 1845. Departed this life March 3d, 1914, aged 68 years, 3 months and 3 days. He was the son of James and Mathurza C. Land. He was one of a family of nine children, eight boys and one girl. The sister and three of the brothers have preceded him to the better land.

Mr. Land has been in failing health for the past two years, but was able to be about until a week ago when he was taken down and was unable to be up until the end came. Although he has suffered a great deal the last year, he bore his affliction patiently, never complaining but very little.

Of his immediate family, he leaves a wife and eight children six boys and two girls, namely: James H., Luther H., Linnie F., Charles N., Walter F., Hattie M., Chauncey C. and Albert S. He leaves besides the immediate family, six grand children and four brothers, John S., of Hancock county, Jesse D. and James W. of Jennings county and Charley B. of Rush county, also a host of friends and acquaintances to mourn his untimely death.

Full of heart interest and New England atmosphere that brings the thrills of childhood. The comedy scenes are delightful and ring with mirth and laughter. No "Killing or Shooting," nothing but fun. The greatest comedy ever produced. Did you ever court a country girl? Sing in a country church choir? Go to a Husking Bee? Vote in a town meeting? Quincy Adams Sawyer, a young lawyer from Boston did.

The New Secretary.

The executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors acted wisely in naming L. B. Smelser secretary. He has more first-hand knowledge of the work than any of the other candidates in addition to his native ability to attend to the duties of the office.

Mr. Smelser is a capable young man whose ambition to make good in the work will cause him to get results regardless of any difficulties that might arise. During the hours that he is at headquarters, members of the Chamber having some few minutes to spare might call on him and get acquainted.

Much of the brunt of the work falls to the lot of the secretary, and with co-operation the Chamber of Commerce can do marvelous things for Rushville and Rush county. Lend a helping hand and let's do things.

Swat 'Em Now.

How many persons in Rushville or Rush county have ever given the common, insignificant fly any consideration this spring? How many have thought that to kill a fly now would be the same as murdering next summer 5,000,000,000,000 of its progeny?

Doubtless very few have ever devoted one minute to give some thought to such a very important thing as the common, little, old fly. Yet, with all its commonness, the swatting of one fly now will prevent the birth of more flies than times your heart would beat were you to live a hundred thousand years. Sounds incredible, doesn't it? But Dr. L. O. Howard, a government expert has obtained these figures beyond preadventure of a doubt.

The flies will begin buzzing around your ears before long. When you hear one, make it your simple task, no matter what may be your business at that the time, to kill it. Don't lay it out for a few hours; KILL it.

INDICATES G. O. P. IS COMING BACK

in 1912. At a recent primary in which most of the offices were hotly contested, the highest vote cast was 2,094. In Henry county where the Republicans were second in 1912, 15 per cent more votes were cast in the primary, while in Wayne county, where the Progressive party was the first party, the vote fell off 55 per cent.

The Republicans of the old "Burnt" district point to this as the most convincing argument that they will elect a Republican congressman this fall. Finly H. Gray, the present incumbent is having hard sledding and if nominated will hardly have the solid support of his party. Several candidates are being spoken of for the Republican nomination for congressman. William L.

Risk of Newcastle, who was led to slaughter against Gray, may be given the first chance, but if he does not care to make the race, George M. Barnard, former mayor of Newcastle and one of the most eloquent and most effective speakers in eastern Indiana, may get the nomination, although he declared he is not a candidate in any sense of the word.

Still another prospective candidate is Fred L. Barrows, former mayor of Connersville and a prominent lawyer of the Fayette county seat. Barrows' candidacy is being received with favor all over the sixth district. Should Barrows be nominated, the situation would be unique, in that both he and Finly Gray are former mayors of Connersville.

CASES SENT TO SHELBY COUNTY

Change of Venue is Granted in Case of Charles A. Frazee Against Rosa B. Pearson.

TO SET ASIDE WALKER SALES

Kensington Farm Asks Receiver and Trustees be Made Party to Suit Against Walker.

Most of the time in circuit court this morning was taken up with the argument on a motion for a new trial in the case of William E. Inlow against Dr. John G. Lewis. Judge Megee took the case under advisement. The case was sent here on a change of venue from Hancock county. Inlow demanded $750 on a note and was given judgment in the sum of $802 by Judge Megee when the case was heard some time ago. This included principle and interest and $75 attorney fees. The motion for a new trial was filed by the attorney for Lewis.

The cases of Charles A. Frazee, receiver for A. P. Walker, against Rosa B. Pearson, were sent to Shelby county on a change of venue. Three days were given in which to perfect the change. In one of these cases the receiver demands that the sale of some Ideal Husker stock by Walker to Mrs. Pearson, who is his mother-in-law, be set aside, and the other that the sale of cattle be set aside. It is alleged that Walker transferred twelve head of valuable cattle to Mrs. Pearson to keep his creditors from receiving the money they would bring. The motion for a change of venue was filed last Saturday and in the affidavit Mrs. Pearson alleged that because of local prejudice she could not get a fair trial here.

The Kensington Farm, a corporation of Tennessee, through its attorneys, Watson, Tittsworth & Green, filed a petition this morning asking that Charles A. Frazee, receiver for A. P. Walker, and J. M. Amos and A. B. Irvin, trustees for Walker, be made party defendants in the suit against Walker. The Kensington Farm is demanding damages in the sum of $7,300 against Walker and as he is in the hands of a receiver and has his land transferred to the trustees, the plaintiff is endeavoring to have them made a party to the action. Judge Megee took no action on the petition but intimated that he would favor making the receiver a party but did not think the trustees should be added. The matter will Mayor Bell Says Administration is to be Judged by What it Does and Not What it Says.

MANY RAIDS ON "RED LIGHT"

(By United Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind., March 10.—Asked today by the United Press what his policy would be regarding the segregated district here, Mayor Bell said he would make no announcement. "This administration must be judged by what it does rather than what it says," he said. "We will try to suppress those things that are detrimental to the young men and girls, and the things that lead up to vice in every line. There are many things to be curbed other than the 'red light' district said the mayor.

There have been many raids of the "red light" district since Bell became mayor. The impression in some quarters has been that the district would gradually and unofficially be allowed to form again, but this is mere conjecture. The districts pointed out as the probable location of the district, in case it forms, is South

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Eldon, Mo. — "I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased every month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It advertises itself."—Mrs. S. T. HURLEY, Eldon, Missouri.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For sale everywhere.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Seven Keys TO Baldpate

CHAPTER XX.

The Professor Sums Up.

THE mayor of Reuton slid into the shadows.
"As I was saying, Mr. Magee," continued the professor, "Mr. Kendrick and I came up here to secure this package of money as evidence against Cargan and—the man above. I speak with the voice of the law when I say you must turn this money over to me."

For answer Magee smiled at the girl. "You'd better go now," he said. "It's a long walk down the mountain." "You refuse?" cried the professor. "Absolutely. Don't we, Miss Norton?" said Magee. "Absolutely," she repeated bravely. "Then, sir," announced the old man crushingly, "you are little better than a thief, and this girl is your accomplice." "So it must look on the face of it," assented Magee. The girl moved to the big front door, and Magee, with his eyes still on the room, backed away until he stood beside her. He handed her his key.

"I give you," he said, "to the gods of the mountain. But it's only a loan—I shall surely want you back. I can't follow ten feet behind as I threatened—it will be ten hours instead. Good night and good luck."

She turned the key in the lock. "Billy Magee," she whispered, "yours is a faith beyond understanding. I shall tell the gods of the mountain that I am to be—returned. Good night, you—dear."

She went out quickly and Magee, locking the door after her, thrust the key into his pocket. For a moment no one stirred. Then Mr. Max leaped up and ran through the flickering light to the nearest window.

There was a flash, a report and Max came back into the firelight examining a torn trousers leg.

"I don't mean to kill anybody," explained Mr. Magee—"just to wing him. But I'm not an expert—I might shoot higher than I intend—so I suggest that no one else try a break for it."

"Mr. Magee," said Miss Thornhill, "I don't believe you have the slightest idea who that girl is nor what she wants with the money."

"That," he replied, "makes it all the more exciting, don't you think?" "Do you mean," the professor exploded, "you don't know her? Well, you young fool!"

"It's rather fine of you," remarked Miss Thornhill.

"It's asinine if it's true," the professor voiced the other side of it.

"I hope every one is quite comfortable," remarked Mr. Magee, selecting a seat facing the crowd. "It's to be a long wait, you know."

In Upper Asquewan Falls the clock on the old town hall struck 9. Mr. Magee, on guard in Baldpate's dreary office, counted the strokes. She must be halfway down the mountain now. Tonight there would be no need of a troubadour to implore "Weep No More, My Lady." William Hallowell Magee had removed the cause for tears.

It was a long vigil he had begun, but there was no boredom in it for Billy Magee. He was too great a lover of contrast for that. As he looked around on the ill assorted group he guarded he compared them with the happier people of the inn's summer nights, about whom the girl had told him. Instead of these surly or sad folk sitting glumly under the pistol of romantic youth he saw maids garbed in the magic of muslin flit through the shadows. Lights glowed softly. A waltz came up from the casino on the breath of the summer breeze. Under the red and white awnings youth and joy and love had their day—or their night. The hermit was on hand with his postal carded romance. The trees gossiped in whispers on the mountain. And, too, the rocking chair fleet gossiped in whispers on the veranda, pausing only when the admiral sailed by in his glory. Eagerly it ran down its game. This girl—this Myra Thornhill—he remembered, had herself been a victim. After Kendrick disappeared she had come there no more, for there were ugly rumors of the man who had fled. Mr. Magee saw the girl and her long absent lover whispering together in the firelight. He wondered if they, too, imagined themselves at Baldpate in the summer; if they heard the waltz in the casino and the laughter of men in the grill room.

Ten o'clock, said the town hall pompously. She was at the station now. In the room of her tears she was waiting—perhaps her only companion the jockey of the "See the World" poster, whose garb was but a shade bluer than her eyes. Who was she? What was the bribe money of the Suburban railway to her? Mr. Magee did not know, but he trusted her, and he was glad she had won through him. He saw Professor Bolton ton walk through the flickering half light to join Myra Thornhill and Kendrick.

It must be half past by now. Yes—from far below in the valley came the whistle of a train. Now—she was boarding it—she and the money! Boarding it—for where? For what purpose? Again the train whistled.

"The siege," remarked Mr. Magee, "is more than half over, ladies and gentlemen."

The professor of comparative literature approached him and took a chair at his side.

"I want to talk with you, Mr. Magee," he said.

"A welcome diversion," assented Magee, his eyes still on the room.

"I have discussed matters with Miss Thornhill," said the professor in a low voice. "She has convinced me that in this affair you have acted from a wholly disinterested point of view. A mistaken idea of chivalry, perhaps. The infatuation of the moment for a pretty face—a thing to which all men with red blood in their veins are susceptible—a pleasant thing that I would be the last to want banished from the world."

"Miss Thornhill," replied Billy Magee, "has sized up the situation perfectly—except for one rather important detail. It is not the infatuation of the moment, professor. Say, rather, that of a lifetime."

"Ah, yes," the old man returned. "Youth—how sure it always is of that. I do not deprecate the feeling. Once, long ago, I, too, had youth and faith. We will not dwell on that, however. Miss Thornhill assures me that Henry Bentley, the son of my friend John Bentley, esteems you highly. She asserts that you are in every respect, as far as her knowledge goes, an admirable young man. I feel sure that after calm contemplation you will see that what you have done is very unfortunate. The package of money, which in a giddy moment you have given into a young lady's keeping, is much desired by the authorities as evidence against a very corrupt political ring. I am certain that when you know all the details you will be glad to return with me to Reuton and do all in your power to help us regain possession of that package."

And now the town hall informed Mr. Magee that the hour was 11. He pictured a train flying like a black shadow through the white night. Was she on it—safe?

"Professor Bolton," he said, "there couldn't possibly be any one anywhere more eager than I to learn all the details of this affair—to hear your real reason for coming to Baldpate inn and to have the peroxide blond incident properly classified and given its niche in history. But let me tell you again my action of tonight was no mere madness of the moment. I shall stick to it through thick and thin. Now, about the blonds."

"The blonds!" repeated the professor dreamily. "Ah, yes, I must make a small confession of guilt there! I did not come here to escape the results of that indiscreet remark, but I really made it—about a year ago. Shall I ever forget? Hardly. The newspapers and my wife won't let me. I can never again win a new honor, however dignified, without being referred to in print as the peroxide blond advocate. On the night when Mr. Kendrick and I climbed Baldpate mountain I remarked as much to him. And so it occurred to me that if I found any need of explaining my presence here the blond incident would do very well. It was only—a white lie."

"A blond one," corrected Mr. Magee. "I forgive you, professor."

"To begin with," continued the professor, "I am a member of the faculty of the University of Reuton, situated, as you no doubt know, in the city of the same name. For a long time I Instead I have found a human, rather likable man."

Mr. Magee smiled over to where the great bulk of Cargan slouched in a chair.

"He's a bully old scout," he remarked.

"Even so," replied the professor, "his high handed career of graft in Reuton must come to a speedy close. He is of a type fast vanishing through the awakening public conscience. And his career will end, I assure you, despite the fact that you, Mr. Magee, have seen fit to send our evidence scurrying through the night at the behest of a chit of a girl. I beg your pardon—I shall continue. Young Drayton, the new county prosecutor, was several years back a favorite pupil of mine. After he left law school he fell under the spell of the picturesque mayor of Reuton. Cargan liked him and he rose rapidly. Drayton had no thought of ever turning against his benefactor when he accepted the first favors, but later the open selling of men's souls began to disgust him. When Cargan offered him the place of prosecutor a few months ago Drayton assured him that he would keep his oath of office."

"It was in me, remember," he went on, "that Drayton confided his resolve to serve the public. I was delighted at the news. A few weeks ago he informed me his first opportunity was at hand. Through one of the men in his office he had learned that Hayden of the Suburban Electric was seeking to consolidate that road, which had fallen into partial disrepute under his management during the illness of Thornhill, the president, with the Civic. The consolidation would raise the value of the Suburban nearly two million dollars—at the public's expense. Hayden had seen Cargan. Cargan had drafted ordinance No. 45 and informed Hayden that his price for passing it through the council would be the sum you have juggled in your possession on Baldpate mountain—$200,000."

"A mere trifle," remarked Magee sarcastically.

"So Cargan made Hayden see. Through long experience in these matters the mayor has become careless. He is the thing above the law, if not the law itself. He would have had no fear in accepting this money on Main street at midday. He had no fear when he came here and found he was being spied on."

"But Hayden—there was the difficulty that began the drama of Baldpate inn. Hayden had few scruples; but, as events tonight have well proved, Mr. Magee, he was a coward at heart. I do not know just why he lies on your bed upstairs at this moment a suicide. That is a matter between Kendrick and him and one which Kendrick himself has not yet fathomed. As I say, Hayden was afraid of being caught. Andy Rutter, manager of Baldpate inn for the last few summers, is in some way mixed up in the Suburban. It was he who suggested to Hayden that an absolutely secluded spot for passing this large sum of money would be the inn. The idea appealed to Hayden. Cargan tried to laugh him out of it. The mayor did not relish the thought of a visit to Baldpate mountain in the dead of winter, particularly as he considered such precautions unnecessary. But Hayden was firm. This spot, he pointed out, was ideal, and the mayor at last laughingly gave in. The sum involved was well worth taking a little trouble to gain."

Professor Bolton paused and blinked his dim old eyes.

"So the matter was arranged," he continued. "Mr. Bland, a clerk in Hayden's employ, was sent up here with the money, which he placed in the safe on the very night of our arrival. The safe had been left open by Rutter. Bland did not have the combination. He put the package inside, swung shut the door and awaited the arrival of the mayor."

"I was present," smiled Magee, "at the ceremony you mention."

"Yes? All these plans, as I have said, were known to Drayton. A few nights ago he came to me. He wanted to send an emissary to Baldpate—a man whom Cargan had never met—one who could perhaps keep up the pretense of being here for some other reason than a connection with the bribe. He asked me to undertake the mission, to see all I could and if possible to secure the package of money. This last seemed hardly likely. At any rate, I was to gather all the evidence I could. I hesitated."

THIS NEW MEDICINE SAVES YOU MONEY

We are druggists right here in your town and make a living out of the drug business, but it is because people have to have drugs and not because we like to see people suffer. —we don't. Our duty is to render the best service we can, and when someone is ailing, we are interested in seeing them take the best medicine there is for their particular trouble. We don't recommend "cure-alls," as we don't believe there are such things. We don't want you to spend more than you have to. Some of you get small wages, and when you're sick, none at all, and you should get the most you can for your money.

We recently came across a new remedy for increasing strength and building up people who are run-down and emaciated. We know that a slight trouble sometimes grows into a serious one, and to stop it in the beginning, will save you money in the end. This new compound is called Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. It is the best remedy, when you are run-down, tired out, nervous—no matter what the cause. It doesn't merely stimulate you and make you feel good for a few hours, but takes hold of the weakness and builds you up to a healthy, normal condition. It is a real nerve-food tonic and builder of good blood, strong muscle, good digestion. It contains Hypophosphites, which tone the nerves, and pure Olive Oil, which nourishes the nerves, the blood and entire system. Pleasant to take. Contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. We promise that if you are not perfectly satisfied with it, we'll give back your money as soon as you tell us. Sold only at the 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. $1.00. BIBLE NOT AN OBSELETE BOOK

Rather it is an Up-to-Date Manual
For Daily Living, Rev. L. A.
Harriman Says at M. E. Church.

DR. TEVIS PREACHES TONIGHT

Second Day of Revival Meeting is Marked by Large Crowd, Good
Singing and Fine Spirit.

The second day of the special meetings at the St. Paul Methodist church was marked by a large crowd, good spirit and fine singing. The Rev. L. A. Harriman conducted the congregational singing, sang a solo, "Sweet Will of God" and preached the sermon of the evening. His text was "Thy Will be Done."

In the main his thought was that the Bible was not a complete book historically, scientifically nor biographically. The Rev. Mr. Harriman said many things are left unsaid on these subjects, but as a guide to faith and salvation, it is most complete.

The occasion of the text was the request of the Disciples that Christ teach them to pray and in response to this He taught them the commonly-called Lord's prayer. In this prayer is the phrase, "Thy Will be Done," which was taken as the text.

He mentioned the difficulty and anxiety parents have in subduing and training the child's will and stated that genuine religion meant that our will and personality was superseded by God's will. The Rev. Mr. Harriman showed that every man at times desires advice as to the proper course of action and emphasized that the Bible is not an obsolete book, but an up-to-date manual for daily living.

The sermon was attentively listened to and made a good impression. Tonight the Rev. Mr. Harriman will conduct the preliminary song service and sing a solo. The Rev. V. W. Tevis, district superintendent, will preach.

At the close of the service tonight a meeting of the official board will be held and the members are urged to be present as important business is to be transacted.

John Geraghty of the Arlington school argued with the board to let his team enter, but the board was obdurate. Milroy is matched to play Albion.

BRYAN SEES NO DANGER FROM RAID

International Complications Averted
Because Recovery of Vegara
Was Commercial Transaction.

FAMILY PAYS TO HAVE IT DONE

(By United Press.)
Washington, Mar. 10.—There was real improvement in the Mexican situation today in the opinion of Secretary Bryan. The great danger of international complications was believed to have been averted. The much mooted raid of Texas rangers who recovered Vergara's body turned out to be merely a commercial transaction pure and simple. Relatives of the dead rancher paid $400 for the expedition and most of the members were Mexicans. One was a ranger.

Also army officers disproved the claims of Governor Colquitt of Texas that Vergara had been tortured by fire before death. The undertaker who took charge of the body reported there were no traces of burns.

This was the statement of Governor Colquitt of Texas received by the United Press today in response to an inquiry as to his position in the situation growing out of the exhuming of rancher Vergara's body.
